ISRAEL ORDERS WITHDRAWAL

10-Month-Old Baby's Cries Save Family Of Five From Gas Fumes

Premier Calls For Speedy Troop Leaving

Edict Follows Meeting With UNEF Commander

By WALTER LOGAN
United Press Staff Correspondent

Premier David Ben-Gurion today ordered the Israeli army to proceed with "full and prompt" withdrawal from the Gaza Strip and the Gulf of Aqaba area.

An official source said Ben-Gurion will present the Knesset (parliament) with his decision Tuesday as "an act of faith in the international community."

Within four hours of Ben-Gurion's decision, Maj. Gen. E.L.M. Burns, commander of the United Nations Emergency Force (UNEF), announced "full agreement in principle" on technical details of the Israeli pullout from Egyptian territory.

Burns refused to say when the long-awaited withdrawal would begin.

After a 50-minute conference at Lydda Airport outside Tel Aviv with Maj. Gen. Moshe Dayan, chief of staff of the Israeli army, Burns said he would report immediately to U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld in New York.

Burns refused to say whether Egyptian troops would be allowed back into the Gaza Strip, one of the main objections offered by Israel against a withdrawal of its forces.

"It is not my concern—it is a political question," Burns said. "I am not aware of the possibility of the return of the Egyptians into Gaza—nor otherwise."

Burns and Dayan met after Ben-Gurion ordered his army head to proceed immediately with plans for the Israeli withdrawal. The UNEF commander flew from El Arish, near the Gaza Strip, to Lydda, arriving at 5 p.m. (10 a.m. EST). About an hour later, the military details were settled.

Ben-Gurion planned to make his formal announcement of the withdrawal to the Israeli parliament Tuesday.

Fights Off Opposition
Today's announcement followed a hectic week end during which Ben-Gurion fought off opposition at home and sought further clarification of U. S. views from Israeli representatives in Washington and New York.

Official sources said the Israeli cabinet's decision was based on a message from President Eisenhower to Ben-Gurion early Sunday.

In parliament, Ben-Gurion faces a motion of no-confidence introduced by the Herut opposition party. In effect, Ben-Gurion has gone against a probable majority of Israeli public opinion to withdraw from the disputed areas. If he does not survive the parliamentary vote, he will not be able to continue.

Twp. Police Start Traffic Crackdown

Action Prompted By 13 Crashes In Short Time

Bristol Township police today threatened a crack down on all traffic violators as the result of a series of 13 accidents over the week end and the arrest of four motorists—three on drunken driving charges and the fourth on a charge of disorderly conduct.

"This situation is getting out of hand and we are going to act to stop it," Chief John Stewart said this morning. "We will show violators no mercy."

The chief said he was going to put extra patrols on the road and some officers would ride in unmarked cars to spot violators. The drive is aimed specifically at speeders, drunken and reckless drivers.

"These violators are the main causes of accidents," the chief said.

Arrested on drunken driving charges were John J. Hoffman, 52, 48 Elm lane, Levittown; Alfred James, 33, 514 Court B, Bristol Terrace I, and Francis Edward Fey, 32, 204 Wake road, Philadelphia. They all will be given hearings on the charges.

John Eveland, 53, 544 Claymont avenue, Langhorne, was charged with disorderly conduct after he crashed into another car at Newportville and Durham roads, Saturday evening. He will be given a hearing before J. P. Rene Tritschler, Croydon, Wednesday.

Good Evening!

Blue skies—and cool.

Maybe spring hasn't as yet arrived. But you'd never know it considering the million motorists searching for it in Lower Bucks yesterday.

And we see where Mr. Ike will be using helicopters to fly to his favorite golf course at the capital to avoid traffic difficulties.

Here we go again. Soon the skies will be filled with knights of the willow, fleeing to the green and fairway haunts.

Judging by a few of 'em we get behind occasionally, perhaps they should keep on fleeing.

Israel delay on the Egypt pull-out expected momentarily to end.

It appears here's another crisis about to be resolved, but don't relax. The whole Mideast problem will be a toughie until Nasser is cut down to size, and the cutting doesn't seem an easy assignment.

Grim tragedies, those involving Philadelphia, Jersey children.

And a couple of very difficult cases with which police are confronted. But they'll be cracked, never fear.

A reunion is a get-together to see who's falling apart.

Nothing seems to astonish people these days as much as good common sense.

You heard about the Texan who developed an inferiority complex? He thought he was no better than anybody else.

Watch your driving.

Officials Puzzled In Girl's Death

BELLMAR, N.J. (UP)—The apparent starvation death of four-year-old Mary Jane Barker whose body was found Sunday in the closet of an unfinished house caused conflicting theories among authorities today about her disappearance.

A playmate found Mary Jane's fully clothed body, huddled alongside a puppy, six days after she disappeared from her home, less than two blocks away.

An autopsy showed that the blonde, blue-eyed girl had not eaten since leaving her home to go out to play last Monday. She was last seen several hours later playing with the puppy, which belonged to six-year-old Mary Freita, who found the body while visiting the new house with an aunt and uncle, the owners.

Fairless Hills Baby Chokes On Rattle

Funeral services for a 10-month old Fairless Hills strangulation victim will be held at 2 p.m. tomorrow from the Beck-Dougherty mortuary, Levittown. Burial will be in Emilie Methodist Church cemetery, Levittown.

The child, Mary Ann Parsons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Phillip Parsons, 683 Trenton road, died Saturday when a rattle lodged in her throat while playing, and strangled her.

Dr. James Ledgard, Levittown, pronounced the child dead at 9:50 a.m. Saturday. Bucks County Coroner Thomas C. Lamb said death was due to strangulation.

Mother Passes Out On Floor; Father Opens Windows

The cries of a 10-month old baby boy saved his life and those of his parents and two brothers when gas, leaking from a heater, filled their home, at 17 Bath road, near Laurel Bend, this weekend.

The insistent crying of little John Weber, woke his mother, Mary, 28, at 4 a.m. Saturday. When she got up to see what was wrong with the infant she became faint.

"My head was wheeling," she said, "when I got up and went into the baby's room."

She said she brought the baby into her bedroom and woke her husband, Joseph, 32. She then went into the kitchen where she passed out on the floor.

By then her husband was up and felt faint too. He realized there was a gas leak and opened all the windows. He revived his wife and they woke their two other children, Raymond, 8, and Joseph, Jr., three-and-a-half, and took them to the windows for air.

Dog Acts Strange

Mrs. Weber said it was very unusual for the baby to wake during the night. "He usually sleeps through until morning," she said. She added that the family's pet boxer, Baron, had been acting strange throughout the night, also.

He started barking at midnight, she said, and kept it up. She said he wanted to go out at midnight but when she let him out he came right back in.

"He kept barking and whining (Continued on Page 3, Col. 5)

Dead Boy's Probe Widens

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—The possibility that the unidentified boy found murdered here last Tuesday might have come in contact with water either before or after the slaying was indicated by Philadelphia police Sunday.

Chief Detective Inspector John J. Kelly said a reexamination of the body revealed a puckering of the skin on the feet and right hand similar to skin that has been in water.

Kelly added there was no indication from the autopsy that the boy "had been in the Fox Chase section here was a victim of drowning."

Kelly said a new set of pictures showing the boy's profile as well as a full shot and a picture of the half-blanket he was wrapped in when found will soon be distributed to police departments throughout the Eastern part of the United States. He said the profile shot of the boy more clearly showed his age as being between four and five.

Two Runaway Youths Back Home

Two Levittown youths who had run away from home, were returned early this morning from Henderson, N. C.

Falls township police said the boys were reported missing Friday. They had taken an automobile belonging to the father of one of the boys.

Henderson police picked up the youths as the result of a teletype that had been sent out listing the license number of the car.

The youths, age 15 and 17, were taken to the Bucks County Juvenile Detention home in Edison pending further disposition.

Ferry Road Lake

Failure of rainwater to drain properly causes this drainage problem on Ferry road at the intersection of Trenton road in Falls township. James R. Stewart, president of the Pennsbury Heights-Falls Park Civic association, said the overflow creates a health hazard and, in cold weather, a traffic hazard. The Civic Association and the Falls Township Board of Supervisors have been urging the State to install storm sewers along a 250-yard stretch of Trenton road, a State highway, to alleviate the condition. The water also causes numerous cesspools in the area to overflow.

Fairless Steel Unit Demands Union Voice

'Rank and File' Conference Urged By Local 4889

Steelworkers Local 4889, of the Fairless Works of U. S. Steel Corp., has called for a "rank and file" conference of District 7 of the AFL-CIO United Steelworkers of America "to consider ways to bring more democracy into our union."

The action resulted from the recent election for international president, in which the members of 4889 favored Donald C. Rarick, a "rebel," against incumbent David McDonald by nearly three-to-one. The complete count has not yet been made by the union, but incomplete unofficial returns show McDonald ahead by a two-to-one majority.

Leaders of the Fairless Works local gave no endorsement in the election last month, but they reportedly had favored the re-election of McDonald. However, the newsletter for the local this week said the election reflected "a large undercurrent of dissatisfaction with McDonald's policies."

The demand for a district conference was voted at a recent meeting of the Local, with 200 (Continued on Page 3, Col. 8)

Chamber To Hear Mideast Speaker

The addition of a second speaker for the annual banquet of the Greater Lower Bucks Chamber of Commerce tomorrow night was announced today by Devon Smith, banquet chairman.

He is James Hausman, nationally-known public relations man who has just returned from a tour of the Middle East. Mr. Hausman will relate his first-hand impressions of the Mid-East crisis.

Mr. Smith reported that tickets are selling briskly for the banquet, which will start at 7 p.m. tomorrow at the William Penn Junior High School, Fairless Hills.

Principal speaker will be Howard C. Petersen, president of the Fidelity-Philadelphia Trust Co., civic leader and former U.S. assistant secretary of war. Mr. Petersen will speak on "A Look at Today and Tomorrow in Lower Bucks." They Came To Dinner

3 Women Escape As Train Hits Car

Three Lower Bucks women got to a dinner Saturday night only an hour late - after escaping from a car seconds before it was smashed by a 48-car Pennsylvania Railroad freight train near Scudder's Falls.

In a car driven by Miss Agnes Simeone, 20, of Emilie road, Levittown, were Miss Dee Falen, 19, of 341 Trenton road, and Mrs. Annette Sutch, 32, of 432 Lincoln Highway, both Fairless Hills.

On Railroad Tracks

Miss Falen explained the car got tied up on the railroad tracks as they made a turn off River Road.

After realizing she was driving on the track, Miss Simeone and the passengers got out and tried to push the car off the tracks.

Miss Falen said they spotted the lights and heard the train coming their way and hustled away from the tracks.

The freight rammied the rear of the sedan, driving it 75 feet along the tracks before depositing it in a heap at the end of the run.

None of the women were injured but Miss Falen said "We were pretty scared for a while."

After the accident, the women continued on to a dinner with a friend at Landwehr's restaurant in honor of a fellow worker at National Tube Division of U. S. Steel where all three are employed.

The Simeone girl was driving a car owned by her fiancé, Paige Stewart of 122 Schumacher drive, Bristol. Last summer, she had been given last rites in Lower Bucks hospital while seriously ill.

4 Crashes Keep Falls Police Busy

A Bloomsdale Gardens resident was injured in one of a series of accidents that kept Falls Township Police running early Saturday morning.

James B. Fullard, 124 Fleetwing drive, was treated and released at Lower Bucks County hospital for contusions of the right leg.

Fullard told Falls police that as he crossed the canal bridge on Old Route 13 at 1:45 a.m. Saturday his car went out of control, struck three guard rails and landed in a ditch.

His car was a total loss.

Reckless Driving

J. E. Smith, 32, of 11 Faircrest avenue, Trenton, was charged with reckless driving after he fell asleep at the wheel and his vehicle knocked over three guard rails at 4:20 a.m. on the U.S. Route 1 freeway across from Rednor and Kline lumber company.

Falls Policemen Frank Gibson and Edward Born said the entire right side of the car was damaged.

Another accident was reported at 6:30 a.m. on the freeway. Leonard Arron, 30, of 21 New School lane, Levittown, skidded across the slick highway and crashed into a guard rail on the opposite side. At the same time, William O. Hoin Jr., 45, of Lancaster, who was driving a tractor-trailer truck west on the road, applied the brakes and the trailer jackknifed across the road damaging the left side of the tractor.

Edmund Brown and Hugh McCue investigated.

Went Into Skid

At 1:10 a.m. Richard Clossin, 19, Philadelphia, was traveling north on Route 1. As his vehicle approached the crest of the Pennsylvania railroad bridge, his car went into a skid and hit another operated by James J. Acton Jr., Francis avenue, Trenton.

The Clossin vehicle was a total wreck and damage to the Acton car was the right side.

Patrolman Charles Beck investigated.

Withdrawal

Other Developments

Elsewhere, the situation was this:

—The nine-nation Arab League in Cairo informed the United States it opposed United Nations administration of the Gaza Strip and enforcement of freedom of navigation in the Gulf of Aqaba. Both are key assumptions in Israel's decision to withdraw.

—The independent Egyptian newspaper Al Akhbar predicted in Cairo that Israel would be forced to withdraw from both areas regardless of any attempts at delay.

—Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban goes before the United Nations General Assembly this afternoon to restate Israel's position on withdrawal. The Asian-African bloc at the UN was threatening to demand an immediate vote on sanctions if the pullout was further delayed.

With the political decision made—and the Israeli cabinet's decision was said to be final—it was up to Burns and Dayan to work out the technical details of withdrawal.

Board Candidates Sought By Group

Citizens Educational Council of Bristol Township is interested in selecting the best qualified applicants for school board candidacy.

The announcement was made this morning by Mrs. Ralph Cooper, 405 Stonybrook drive, Levittown, chairman of the committee.

She said, "We are extending an invitation to anyone interested in serving on the school board to submit his or her name to the committee."

Mrs. Cooper said interested persons should contact her at WI 6-5119.

All petitions for school board candidates must be filed by March 15.

Board Gets Amusement Park Appeal

Thriftmart's court appeal on a children's amusement park was remanded back to the Falls Township Zoning Board of Adjustment today by Judge Edwin H. Satterthwaite.

The market had appealed an action by the Township Zoning Board, which refused to grant a special exception to the zoning ordinance in order to allow construction of the amusement center.

Judge Satterthwaite pointed out that it appears the nature of the uses cited in the zoning application is materially different from that considered by the board of adjustment.

The judge said there are questions of judgement involved and that it appears the questions should be resolved by the board.

He ordered further proceedings on the appeal suspended until the Board's decision is made on an amended application for a special exception by Thriftmart.

The judge said that the amended application should cite the uses of the amusement area as they were presented in court.

He ordered that the decision of the board be returned to him and retained jurisdiction of the appeal for any further action which may be necessary.

Seeing Levittown

By JIM ORT

Bill Bogane, 82 Evertown lane, Elderberry, is passing out cigars celebrating the birth of a baby boy on Saturday. His wife, Lydia, the former writer of this column, gave birth to the seven pound, three ounce boy on Saturday. The Boganes have one other child, Wendy Lee, four-and-a-half. Understand the new arrival will be named William Corey.

The building fund drive of the Levittown Public Library is officially underway. The $150,000 drive to erect a library building at the intersection of Levittown and Mill Creek parkways will be climaxed by a door-to-door canvass on March 27. Total contributions thus far amount to $1475.

Blue Riders reported an unexpected visitor on Friday. Seems a seal gull wandered off course and dropped in for a short stay. Previously we had reports of snakes, skunks, deer, etc., but this is the first time we've heard of a sea gull dropping into Levittown. All goes to prove that anything can happen in the community, and usually does.

School Asked For Drivers Who Lose Their Licenses

Motorists whose operator's licenses are revoked or suspended will have to go to "school" before they return behind the wheel, if a bill introduced in the State House of Representatives by Assemblywoman Margarette Kooker, of Quakertown, is passed.

The Upper Bucks Legislator joined another assemblywoman, Rep. Ruth Donahue, of Clinton County in sponsoring the bill. Both are Republicans.

"Refresher" Classes

The measure would require the suspended drivers to attend eight weekly "refresher" classes for "clinical and rehabilitation" work before they could drive again. It would apply to all suspensions of more than 60 days, and license revocations. The "re-educated" driver would have to pay a $10 tuition fee for his course.

The two women legislators also sponsored a bill that would make airplane owners insure their marks of violence on Mary Jane's body, nor any indications of sexual molestation.

A spokesman for the coroner's office expressed the opinion that the child had wandered into the closet, become trapped, and then died of fright and starvation.

But Police Chief Edward Garrity stressed that his men had searched the house at least three times since the child's disappearance. Garrity said he was "almost positive" that searchers had checked the closet.

The police chief said indications were Mary Jane had only recently been placed in the closet.

Although the door was unlocked, police said it had only a thumb screw inside, making it difficult to open — especially for a child.

Puppy Still Alive

Suffocation also was advanced as a possible cause of death, but a physician attending the autopsy said he believed Mary Jane died from a lack of food.

The puppy, which appeared in good condition, was to be examined today to determine when it had last eaten. Neither searchers nor workmen had reported hearing any barking or whining while in the house last week, police said.

Discovery of the child's body climaxed an intensive week-long search by police and volunteers who had combed this South Jersey town.

Police Hold Youth In Station Looting

State Police of the Fairless Hills barracks have filed a detainer against a Bucks County youth, arrested last week near Allentown on a burglary charge.

The youth, John David Roberts, 18, Chalfont, was nabbed in the act of burglarizing a service station by state police of the Trexler barracks. Under questioning he admitted stealing four tire inner tubes from the Oxford Valley service station, Route 1, Fairless Hills state police barracks, on Jan. 18.

Trooper Paul Fehr, of the local barracks, questioned Roberts further and then filed the detainer. Roberts is being held for the Lehigh County grand jury.

The Oxford Valley station has not been in operation for the past year.

Bandit Hits Sharon Bank

SHARON, Pa. (UP)—A light-haired bandit wearing a false mustache robbed the Hickory Twp. office of the McDowell National Bank of Sharon today and escaped with about $5000 to $10,000 in cash. The bandit walked into the branch office of the bank in Hickory Plaza, a shopping center two miles east of here, about 10:00 a.m. Brandishing a pistol, the gunman menaced about eight customers, then leaped a counter and forced a teller to scoop money into a bag which he carried.

He then vaulted a railing and ran from the office. Witnesses said he fled in a 1952 or 1953 black Buick sedan. The get-away car, which bore license No. PL589, then headed toward Sharon.

Bank employees and customers said the man was dressed in a checkered topcoat and wore an obviously false mustache. The suspect was described as about five feet, seven-inches tall with light hair, and about 34 years of age.

Turn Missed As Load Of Steel Shifts

A tractor-trailer, loaded with rolled steel, this morning damaged the General Greene Inn, Buckingham, one of the oldest and best known inns in the county.

Thomas J. Henson, of Westchester, driver of the truck, said he could not make a turn from Route 202 and that the load of steel shifted.

The truck crashed into a traffic light and knocked over two gasoline pumps owned by Lester Wehmeyer. The gas pumps were at the intersection of Route 202 and Old York road.

The driver, who flopped to the floor of the truck cab, escaped injury.

Doylestown State Police did not estimate damage to the inn, which is owned by George Joos. The tractor-trailer struck the inn before it overturned.

Buckingham residents said the sharp right-angle turn on Route 202 causes many accidents and that the traffic light it knocked down about two or three times a year.

Steel Local

Introduced by Clarence Eaton, of the publications committee, it proposes that the conference be financed by International funds, with each local in District 7 sending one delegate for each 200 members. Local 4889 has approximately 4300 members. An unofficial count gave Rarick 955 and McDonald 338 votes in the election for international president.

Rarick, virtually unknown, rode to fame by leading a protest against a $2 monthly dues increase enacted by the Steelworkers International board. Members of 4889 joined the protest by voting to request a special convention to reconsider the raise.

The Fairless Union News, spokesman for the leadership of Local 4889, noted that Rarick "campaigns against a strong machine without any money or organization of his own." It noted that Rarick, though apparently defeated, won the vote in the big steel centers.

Dissatisfaction

The union paper editorialized that dissatisfaction with the current union contract and with "not enough say by the membership in running the affairs of the union" were instrumental in Rarick's high showing.

"We hope that President McDonald will pay attention to this dissatisfaction and institute the reforms the situation calls for," the paper said. "What is needed is less talk about pie in the sky in the future (McDonald's talk about a three-month vacation every five years) and less boasting about past union achievements and more attention to what we need right now."

"We want the right to decide for ourselves on dues and on salary increases," the union paper said. "We want the international organizers to be elected by the men they have to service and not be beholden to the district director for their appointment and their job. This is the way to stop machine rule."

Right To Vote

"Finally, we want the right to vote on contract. We're the ones who suffer during strikes; we're the ones who have to live under the contract."

The local's action asks District Director Hugh P. Carrella to call the rank-and-file conference. The local also asked that an international representative be assigned to the Fairless Works, appointed by members of the Fairless unions.

The district includes Eastern Pennsylvania, South Jersey and Delaware.

30 Firemen Quell 4:30 a.m. Blaze

John Curran, of 54 Autumn lane, Levittown, who fell asleep on his living room sofa while smoking a cigarette, was awakened at 4:30 a.m. yesterday by the smell of smoke.

He discovered the sofa was on fire. He quickly summoned Levittown Number Two Fire Company and then dragged the sofa outside.

Thirty firemen rushed to the scene and doused the blaze. Curran estimated the damage to the sofa at $150.

Fire Chief W. R. Hudson said Curran's quick action in removing the couch prevented damage to his home.

Council Plans Evaluation Of Bridge Site

Yardley Borough Council will meet in special session tonight to evaluate answers to a questionnaire distributed to all Yardley taxpayers on the Yardley bridge relocation.

Bridge committee chairman, Alex Hammel said the results of the survey will go a long way in helping the state highway departments of New Jersey and Pennsylvania and the Bridge commission reach a final decision.

Thursday
That final decision may come Thursday at a special highway and bridge commission meeting. Mr. Hammel said he is hopeful the final decision can be reached soon. "This bridge question has been going on for a long time and it's been a lot of wearying work for all of us."

Mr. Hammel emphasized the council is not bound to go along with the results of the survey. "If we don't get enough response to the questionnaire, it may not prove as useful as we have hoped," he said.

There was no indication of how many questionnaires have been returned.

State Request
The questionnaire was prepared by the council and borough businessmen at the request of the state highway department which asked for a survey of public sentiment on the location.

The two alternate sites are 400 feet north of the present span and 1.3 miles north of the washed-out bridge at Scudder's Falls.

Youth 'Fair' After Crash

A Yardley youth was listed in fair condition this morning at Mercer hospital, Trenton, following an accident early Saturday near Lambertville, in which he suffered head and internal injuries and a companion was killed.

State Police at Hopewell said Robert Borden, 20, of 10 North Edgewater road, driver of the car, would probably be charged with "reckless killing by auto."

The dead man was identified as John Furstenberg, 34, of Elm street, Lambertville.

Police said the accident on River Road between Lambertville and Titusville was still under investigation. Police said it appeared the car was going too fast and couldn't negotiate a turn in the road.

The car smashed into a tree, bounced off into a guard rail and somersaulted on its top.

Furstenberg was pronounced dead on arrival at Mercer hospital, after being dragged from the wreck by State Police. Borden's condition has improved somewhat since the accident, the hospital said.

State Police said icy conditions of the road may have contributed to the mishap.

Two Women Hurt In Route 13 Crash

Two women were treated for injuries last night after a two-car crash at Route 13 and Bath street, Bristol.

Borough police said Frances Serchak, 18 of 831 Stella avenue, Croydon, a passenger in the car of Edgar L. Griffith, Sycamore Gardens, Green lane, Bristol township received abrasions on the cheek and wrist. Elizabeth Mandes, 36, of Rosemont, suffered hysteria and elbow and knee bruises, police said. She was riding in a car driven by Victor E. Mandes, 33, of Rosemont. Both cars were towed away.

Sgt. Anthony Esposito and Patrolman Peter Caro said Griffith was driving east on Route 13, when Mandes, approaching the intersection from the opposite direction, began a left turn into Bath street. Mandes will get a traffic summons for failing to yield the right of way.

Morrisville Businessmen Set To Present Petition

The Morrisville Businessmen's association will present a petition signed by a majority of the owners of downtown Morrisville businesses favoring the proposed Washington street extension at the open hearing tomorrow night.

E. Dilywn Darlington, attorney for the group, said the petition will refute the idea that many of the business people of Morrisville oppose the plan for cutting through Washington street.

The public hearing is set for 8 p.m. at the VFW home at 101 Hillcrest avenue.

"We feel that an off-street parking area is essential to building up business in the area."

"It's the women who do a great deal of the shopping and few women drivers cherish the idea of struggling into a parking space on the street."

"This extension, with a large parking area should relieve much of the problem and certainly increase shopping in the neighborhood," Mr. Darlington said.

Long Favored
The Morrisville Businessmen's association has been on record as favoring the proposal for a long time.

Other business interests in the borough have been as vociferous in opposition to the plan claiming the cost of the project would be overwhelming and would not

Over 200 At Church Fete

Despite a power failure which threatened to hold up the ceremonies, the lights went on 15 minutes before the beginning of festivities and the 50th anniversary celebration at the Big Oak Moravian church was successful.

Rev. Arthur Freeman said over 200 people braved the bad weather Friday night to attend the ceremonies at the church on Big Oak road.

Guest speaker for the affair was Rev. Gordon Stoltz, of the College Hill Moravian church of Bethlehem.

Other participating officials included Rev. Henry Williams, of the fifth Philadelphia Moravian church; Rev. Joseph Schwager, third Philadelphia Moravian church; Rev. James Bruckart, Riverside, N. J.; Rev. Charles Eichman, Palmyra; and Rev. Elmer Bender, Egg Harbor City, N. J.

Yardley Man Voted Club Head

Morrisville GOP Invites All Candidates To Meeting

Any resident of Morrisville interested in running for any local office was urged today to come to a Republican club meeting Wednesday night by Republican party chairman Philip Jones.

Mr. Jones said the party meeting at the Mill Gate restaurant at 7:30 p.m. is open to the public and "we are anxious to hear from anyone seeking any position in the borough."

Notary Public

The party chairman said petitions will be available to prospective candidates and a notary public will be present to make the signed petition legal.

March 18 is the final date for filing petitions for appearing on the primary ballot.

Mr. Jones said the screening committee of the party has been at work full time the past few weeks to obtain a slate for the election in the fall.

More Than One

"In certain cases, the party may choose to endorse more than one candidate for some local offices," Mr. Jones said.

The chairman said any person who wants a nominating petition may contact any member of the

Pardons Probe Calls Official

HARRISBURG (UP)—A special legislative committee was scheduled to call a Delaware County prosecutor to testify today in the investigation of the state Pardons Board.

The joint Senate-House committee was to hear from J. Harold Hughes, assistant district attorney for Delaware County, in its attempt to determine whether political influence was responsible for clemency granted to Michael Caserta, convicted Philadelphia gambler, and five other persons several years ago.

Delaware County Judge Arthur P. Bretherick said last week he felt that political considerations were involved in the board's commutation of sentences of five Philadelphia convicted of destruction of public property in a labor dispute at Media in 1955.

The two-year sentences of Joseph McSorley, Joseph D'Antonia, Joseph J. Dendorfer, Charles Rainier and Pasquale DiMarco were reduced to four months by the board.

Rep. Edwin W. Tompkins (R-Camden), committee chairman, plans to wind up the Delaware County cases early this week and then begin an investigation of the commutations granted former Mayor Thomas W. Flatley of Erie and several others in the 1954 Erie bribe scandal.

Atlantic City Theater Robbed

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (UP)—Three gunmen with handkerchiefs over their faces held up the manager and two employees of the Beach Theater early Sunday and escaped with an estimated $750.

The gunmen held the theater's projectionist, Fred Dodd, at gunpoint until the manager, George Kirkpatrick, Ocean City, and the cashier, Mary Hutchinson, arrived with the day's receipts.

The thugs bound the three victims and made their escape.

In announcing the agency's appointment for the fourth consecutive year, Finkle said that Horace Greeley McNab, agency account executive, would continue to direct the Shop-A-Rama activities from provided offices on the Mall of the Shop-A-Rama in Levittown.

Morrisville Eases Traffic Congestion

The traffic flow in Morrisville should be relieved somewhat by two new signs erected this morning.

A "no left turn" sign has been placed at the intersection of Bridge and Washington streets and at the opposite corner. The signs will prevent left hand turns from Bridge street into Washington and also left hand turns from Washington into Bridge street.
